James R. LaCroix is a principle and manager of LaCroix Davis LLC, a Building and Environmental Consulting and Forensics Company. The company was founded in 2002 by Mr. LaCroix and Stephen C. Davis. Mr. LaCroix has over 50 years of experience in the construction industry. He has worked as a testifying expert for 29 of those years, and has testified in 31 trials and more than 150 depositions. Mr. LaCroix began his career working in his father's construction company, and has worked "hands on" for many disciplines such as concrete, framing, roofing, electrical plumbing & finish carpentry to name a few. He held positions since then such as Forman, Superintendent, Estimator, Project Engineer and Project Manager on commercial and residential projects from high-rise concrete and steel to hundred plus unit apartment complexes as well as residential housing. Mr. LaCroix is licensed as a general contractor in California and Nevada. His extensive experience in both construction and litigation gives him a unique ability to grasp the difficult issues and work toward resolution.
